Dedication

James R. Priester

We, the members of the Senior Class of S. R. U., in appreciation of the many hours you have spent instructing us in English, guiding us in our careers, acting as class sponsor, directing our senior play, and helping with numerous other extracurricular activities, wish to dedicate this 1964 edition of our Smithsonian to you, Mr. Priester.

Supervising Principal

MILES F. RAKER, Supervising Principal

Today the world is changing rapidly. In your twelve years of school you have perhaps witnessed as much progress in scientific advancement as has been made in the past century. In these few years you have witnessed the development of nuclear energy, the common use of television and more recently colored television in our homes, the many uses of electronics and the new types of teaching devices and techniques in our schools. Perhaps the greatest single scientific achievement was on October 4, 1959, when the world heard for the first time the beep-beep-beep of the Russian Sputnik, soon to be followed by the viewing on television of the actual launching and recovery of our own American astronauts.

With the launching of earth satellites, our world suddenly became smaller. Through the use of television and Echo I we now have instantaneous communication throughout our world. John Glenn and other astronauts physically traveled from the Coast of California to the Atlantic Coast in approximately twelve minutes. We are certain to soon overcome the difficulties of space travel.

You have also witnessed great sociological changes in our world. Colonialism has all but disappeared and people today are rising up and demanding independence and a better standard of living. You have witnessed the emergence of two great forms of government, that of the free world and that of the communist world both of which profess to give this freedom and dignity to man.

As scientific progress advances and with the rapid sociological change there are problems evolved. Problems to which there are no easy or immediate answers. To solve these requires the greatest skill and knowledge of our young people. You, as high school graduates, have had the opportunity for the best training possible for this task. The years of the future will be exciting years and to help solve these problems will be part of the fun and joy of living.

Best wishes to each of you,

Miles F. Raker

We Honor a Retiring Teacher

MISS HARRIET W. CHILD

Miss Harriet W. Child, after forty-nine years of teaching, is planning to retire at the end of this school year.

Miss Child received her normal school diploma from West Chester State College in 1915. Since that time, she has attended school at the University of Pennsylvania, Pennsylvania State University, Northwestern University and Columbia University. She has also attended many national meetings of our professional organizations.

Beyond being an outstanding teacher, Miss Child has long been known for her ability to instill in us the virtues of honesty, integrity and dignity. Our community has recently honored Miss Child by naming the new elementary school, established now as the Harriet W. Child Elementary Building in recognition of her many years of service in our district. She is presently serving as building principal of this building and is teaching a first grade class.

During the years of her teaching, she has maintained a record of the names of the students she has taught, and nearly 1300 pupils have started their education under her guidance. Among these pupils in her class of recent years are children of a third generation. Her teaching career is unique in that she has given all of her forty-nine years of service as a first grade teacher to the pupils in Smithfield Township.

We congratulate you, Miss Child, for your years of service as an elementary school teacher and we wish you many pleasant years of retirement.
